CITY COUNCIL MEET

The regular meeting of the City Council was held on Thursday evening last with His Worship Mayor Smith in the chair, and Aldermen Colclough, Galbraith, Stone, Campbell, Lord, and Day in attendance.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A letter was read from the secretary of the School Board stating that the resolution adopted by the Board with regard to land defacing property had been handed to the Principal of the Schools and teachers will be instructed to draw pupils' attention to this matter.

The Secretary of the School Board wrote notifying the Council that Mr. J. E. Graham had resigned from the Board, and therefore there would be three vacancies to fill on the Board this year.

A petition was presented by a number of young ladies asking the Council to change the regulations in the curfew by-law, whereby young ladies under sixteen are compelled to be in at curfew time to all young people under fourteen years of age. The by-law was read, and it was shown that it had been in force for many years. The Mayor thought it might be a hardship for girls of sixteen to come under this by-law. He thought it had changed and it might be well to change the by-law.

Ald. Galbraith thought the by-law did not apply to older girls, and going, say to the rink or a place of amusement, but it referred to playing in the streets, he thought.

Ald. Campbell thought it might wait for a kick from parents, guardians or other people.

Ald. Stone rather took this view. Ald. Colclough thought it was much going and coming, as it was that these older girls must feel that they were breaking the law by being out. No action was taken, and the Council, and the Commissioners were instructed to write acknowledging the communication.

The claim of Cecil Hewson was referred to the City Solicitors.

An application was received from night constable F. H. Anquetil asking for an increase in wages, owing to the high cost of living. He asked for an increase of $1.00 per week. Referred to Commissioners to report.

The claim of drawing attention to the unsanitary condition of the premises occupied by Mr. Conus on 6th Street, Parkville. Referred to Commissioners with power to have the place cleaned up.

Reports of the M.H.O., the Chief of Police, and the Fire Chief were read, received and filed.

The Mayor explained that owing to the illness of Commissioner Stephenson, there was no Commissioner's report to lay before the Council.

The following accounts were passed:

Moved by Ald. Galbraith and Stone that the Commissioners be authorized to bring in a by-law appointing N. G. Kidwell pound keeper in place of B. J. Reighley. Carried.

THE STREET LIGHTS.
The Council then took up the lighting question.

The committee, consisting of Ald. Campbell, Lord and Commissioner Stephenson brought in a report regarding the advisability of installing our present arc lighting system for that of high efficiency lights. Commissioner Stephenson being sick, the Aldermen brought in the report.

After some discussion the following motion was presented to the Council:

Moved by Ald. Lord and Campbell that the Western General Electric Company, Limited, finding it impossible to get material to enable them to render an efficient service with the present arc lighting system, their offer to replace the present system with 35 high efficiency 400 Watt lights at $105.00 each and high efficiency 200 Watt lights at $65.00 per annum, be accepted without prejudice, and the lights be placed as indicated on the blue print submitted to the Council, and the Solicitor be directed to draft an agreement to be submitted to this Council at an adjournment of this meeting at the call of the Mayor.

Ald. Colclough did not like voting for the motion as he contended that we were not competent to judge as to the expert electrical work of this nature and we should have expert advice before making such a move. He did not like the extra expense either which would be about $550.00.

He thought the light would be an improvement.

Ald. Galbraith declined to vote for the motion as he thought we should not pass it until we had seen and discussed the agreement.

Ald. Lord thought it was one of the best agreements we have ever been able to make with the Western General and the lighting system would be far superior to the old system, and the extra lights would fully compensate for the extra cost.

Ald. Campbell contended that as grave the financial outlook was, the city would be wise to have good lighting system instead of the poor lights we have been having.

Ald. Stone and Day and the Mayor were willing to support the motion. The motion then carried, and the Council adjourned to the call of the Mayor to receive the agreement.

The Council met on Monday evening to receive the report with all members of the Council present, and P. E. Graham.

A by-law passed its several readings arranging for the municipal elections, and the Mayor was appointed returning officer and A. G. Ayres deputy returning officer for said elections. Nominations will take place the first Monday in December and if there are more than the number of citizens nominated to fill vacancies, then an election will be held on the second Monday in December.

The agreement was presented to the meeting.

Ald. Colclough said the agreement did not suit him. He asked if Commissioner Stephenson had seen it. The Mayor said he had not seen it.

Ald. Colclough said he thought he should see an agreement of this sort before it passed, as he knew more of such matters than most of us. He asked if the Mayor had seen it.

Ald. Galbraith did not like the extra expense. He thought the change could be made without the extra $550 expense. He contended the Commission would have to pay the change, that is the lights would not cost them so much to operate.

Ald. Campbell realized the gravity of the financial situation, but contended that it would not make our position any worse, and a better lighting system would be of infinitely more value to the city than the small extra amount for the lights.

It was then decided to submit the agreement to Commissioner Stephenson for his advice. The Council adjourned at the call of the Mayor as soon as possible.

DISORDERS IN HOLLAND MAY FORCE WILLIAM BACK INTO GERMANY

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Potsdam soldiers and workers' committee leaders that William Hohenzollern intends to return to Germany, because of disturbances in Holland, according to a dispatch received to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin states that he is likely to be permitted to return.

Prince Eitel Frederick, son of the former emperor, has appealed to his comrades of the Potsdam garrison to place themselves at the disposal of the new government in Germany.

FORMER EMPRESS ARRIVES
Amsterdam, Nov. 18.—The former German empress has arrived in Holland, making the trip by airplane, according to a dispatch received to the Exchange Telegraph.

UNAWARE OF COMING
Munich, Holland, Nov. 18.—Count Charles von Bentinck, son of Count Godard, in an interview today, declared that his father was unaware of the intended coming of the German emperor until last Saturday, when the Dutch government telephoned asking him if he would receive the emperor at his residence as a duty to the Dutch government.

The former emperor's host seems somewhat embarrassed over the deceptions given to him by the German government, which has considerable English connections. Count Charles said that he asked the former emperor: "Well, how long will you remain?"

"That depends upon your Dutch government," was the reply. There are no indications that the former emperor intends to join his father.

VON TIRPITZ IN HOLLAND
Copenhagen, Nov. 17.—Admiral von Tirpitz, former minister of the navy, is in Holland, where he is chiefly responsible for Germany's intensive submarine campaign, led to Switzerland immediately the revolution broke out, says the Frankfurt Gazette.

FEDERAL HOUSE MEMBERS TO HOLD SOME MEETINGS

IN MANITOBA THEY ARE ANXIOUS TO NOTE CHANGES IN PUBLIC OPINION

HEAVY IMMIGRATION FROM UNITED STATES IS ANTICIPATED

Winnipeg, Nov. 15.—Federal parliamentary members from Manitoba have decided to hold weekly conferences in Winnipeg until the session opens, for the purpose of keeping in touch with public sentiment on changed conditions in the province, as one of the members expressed it.

The first meeting at the Royal Alexandra hotel before last was a session of the Manitoba members of the future public men representing different elements will be asked to present and make suggestions.

ON THE ONE PLEDGED
Manitoba's members recognize the fact that they were elected on but one pledge—to support a union government in its legislative work, and now that goal has been achieved, there has been some talk among the members and among the various committees which contributed to the Union success last December in favor of a provincial convention composed of two delegates from each of the political parties from each federal polling sub-division for the purpose of expressing sentiment as a guide for the federal government in the present session, but nothing definite in that direction has been decided upon.

WILL SHOW SOMETHING.
The convention in Winnipeg slated for November 27, of delegates from the Grain Growers and Agricultural Societies, the Immigration, the Tariff and other big problems of construction, promises to be widely attended. It is anticipated that some of the federal members will serve as a guide to agrarian sentiment for the western members of the House. There will be a discussion of the federal government's policy on immigration, and the problems discussed at the meeting in Winnipeg recently, when Hon. Charles Fisher met several land men, particularly those interested in bringing immigrants from the States, and receive their suggestions concerning immigration from the agricultural states to the south.

EXPECTS A BIG TREK.
Lyle Abbott, a lawyer of Omaha, Nebraska, who has been in the American element at this meeting, he was in Regina yesterday and today in Winnipeg in consultation with the federal members, and with the movement of American farmers to Canada. To the Leader man Abbott said there is no question but that a huge movement of Canadians from the States will be on way early next year.

GOD BLESS ALL WOMEN.
Correspondence, Toronto Telegram, Nov. 15.—The women of all the allies, we are told, are to be Britain and a year in Belgium and France, and in Paris, London, Rouen and in other towns and cities of France. Belgium, Holland, and the Netherlands, and in other towns and cities of France. Belgium, Holland, and the Netherlands, and in other towns and cities of France.

GETTING AFTER EX-KAISER'S LAND DEALS IN CANADA.
Chicago, Nov. 16.—On the heels of the former Kaiser Wilhelm's abdication federal authorities here began an investigation to discover the identity of a syndicate of German-Americans among whom are said to be several Chicagoans, who are believed to be nominal heads of the syndicate, which controls several million dollars in land in the United States. The investigation was arranged, and the transaction was manipulated so as to be completely at the disposal of secret agents to trace the land.

AT THAT MEETING, IT IS CLAIMED, among the properties of the ex-kaiser transferred to Americans as nominal holders were: Fifteen valuable timber tracts on the Pacific coast; a large number of mineral lands, both in operation and undeveloped; the land in the island of Canada; fourteen timber tracts in Vancouver Island which the Canadian government had wished to buy; a block of timber lands in the Yukon; a block of timber lands in the Yukon; a block of timber lands in the Yukon.

ELECTIONS IN GERMANY.
Copenhagen, Nov. 17.—The German government expects to hold elections for a national convention in January, says a Berlin dispatch received here.

MILITARY NOTES

J. W. Hey has come more to be congratulated. Last week he received word his son Monty was dangerously ill, following the fight in the air on his first trip up, with five German fast planes. He put up a gallant fight, bringing one of the machine down, but the odds were too great and he fell riddled with shot. The pilot was killed but Monty escaped with a wound in the thigh, after falling among some trees. A wire was received yesterday by Mr. Hey that Monty was suffering from pneumonia in the left leg on October 1, and is now in the military hospital, Orington, Kent, England. Corp. Cochrane left Red Deer with the 4th division.

Word has been received that Col. John W. Cochrane, of Alhambra, was wounded in the left leg on October 1, and is now in the military hospital, Orington, Kent, England. Corp. Cochrane left Red Deer with the 4th division.

Mr. Smith, reported killed in action last week, was a brother of Mr. J. E. Smith, North Red Deer, and worked in the left leg on October 1, and is now in the military hospital, Orington, Kent, England. Corp. Cochrane left Red Deer with the 4th division.

Major and Mrs. Smith will have much sympathy for their son, who was killed in action last week, was a brother of Mr. J. E. Smith, North Red Deer, and worked in the left leg on October 1, and is now in the military hospital, Orington, Kent, England. Corp. Cochrane left Red Deer with the 4th division.

DEBT TO FRANCE IS $68,000,000
Paris, Nov. 16.—Germany's debt to France is estimated at $68,000,000, according to the Matin in an editorial today. The newspaper appraises the debt as follows:

Retard of the indemnity of 1871, with interest, $60,000,000,000 francs; expenses in the present war, 140,000,000 francs; pensions, 40,000,000 francs; and compensation for damage, 100,000,000,000 francs.

The Matin declares that France must secure acknowledgment of the debt by a vote of the Reichstag, which the debt is to be paid, France wants no indemnity profit, but it demands that the Reichstag should return to the Allies a million of 7,000,000 tons of shipping in payment for that destroyed in the war.

Red Deer, Nov. 17.—The figures up to date for the night were as follows:
Red Deer $178,800
Olds $75,550
Inniskillen $137,000

TERRITORIAL ENLISTMENT
The following record of the enlistment in each province up to May 31, 1918, is valuable as indicating the proportion of men who will have to be replaced in industrial life by each after the war:

Alberta 42,538
British Columbia and Yukon 46,828
Manitoba 63,408
New Brunswick 22,822

GERMAN NAVY MUTINIED: BROUGHT ON REVOLUTION
Copenhagen, Nov. 16.—Friday afternoon's edition of the Vorwaerts, a Berlin paper, declared that the report was true that the German fleet was ordered out on Oct. 28 for a final battle, which was to be fought until the last ship was sunk.

The pan-Germans believed that such a battle would reanimate the German people with the spirit of 1914.

It is said that the order to the fleet spoke merely of a "manoeuvre cruise," but the report that a sacrilegious battle was to be fought, like wild fire. A general mutiny followed. "This," says the Vorwaerts, "was the real spark that kindled the revolution."

LETHERIDGE MINER BEATEN TO DEATH.
Lethbridge, Nov. 15.—A brutal murder was committed in this city on the night of last Saturday.

Chen, a miner at No. 3 mine, was beaten and kicked to death at the house where he usually resides. The two men with whom Chen lived are George Dohel and Pete Paulsen.

Witnesses of the crime were arrested and Paulsen on a joint charge of murder. They registered surprise, but it developed that the two men had been fighting most of the evening, and the two men with whom Chen lived are George Dohel and Pete Paulsen.

DEATH OF CHARLES POTET
Mr. Chas. Potet, who has for some years been a journeyman barber and bone barber in Red Deer, and was well known to the public, died on Saturday Nov. 9, from "flu" pneumonia. He had not been in the city for some time, and he was at the end rather under the weather.

Mr. Potet, who has been away in the States for some time, got to Red Deer after the funeral. She and the little daughter will have much sympathy.

VICTORY LOAN WAS OVER SUBSCRIBED BY MANY MILLIONS

RETURN OF BIG CAMPAIGN WAS MUCH GREATER THAN MOST OPTIMISTIC HAD EVEN EXPECTED.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—None of the most sanguine estimates of the success of the 1918 Victory Loan came anywhere near the realization, as expressed in the official figures announced at a great meeting in Massey Hall here tonight. In the three weeks drive Canada subscribed the great sum of $767,027,217, which means that the loan is over-subscribed by more than 35 per cent.

The total as announced for the previous week was $420,000,000. Ontario made good her determination to "make half the $550,000,000." The total as announced for the previous week was $420,000,000. Ontario made good her determination to "make half the $550,000,000."

On another occasion Gen. Currie said: "I wouldn't venture to say that the Canadians had done anything else could have done, but I do venture to say that if we had not done the particular thing we did do, it would have been a disaster to the advance. The Canadian corps have been faced with some of the hardest propositions with which any body of troops has ever been faced, and they have faced them, and they have won."

EVERY PROVINCE WENT OVER
Every province in the Dominion went over its objective, most of them by a substantial margin. The totals for the other provinces are:

British Columbia, $5,995,667.
Alberta, $18,119,500.
Saskatchewan, $23,889,000.
Manitoba, $43,639,500.
Montreal (city and island) $143,435,050.
Quebec (outside Montreal), $32,000,000.
New Brunswick, $15,500,000.
Nova Scotia, $30,600,000.
Prince Edward Island, $2,700,000.

The figures for Prince Edward Island, for the first time, were announced, owing to a big snowstorm, which had hindered reports being turned in.

RED DEER DISTRICT.
In this district the figures up to date for the night were as follows:
Red Deer $178,800
Olds $75,550
Inniskillen $137,000

REACHES ENGLAND ; GIVEN OVATION
London, Nov. 18.—Sir Robert Borden, prime minister of Canada, reached London today to a hero's welcome. He was met by a distinguished gathering, including Premier Lloyd George, and Col. Clude Wilby, representing the King. A guard of honor of the 17th Canadian reserve regiment was drawn up on the platform.

Sir Robert drove off with Mr. Lloyd George amid enthusiastic cheering from large crowds.

In an interview Sir Robert stated that he was returning to the dominions, but he had been in constant communication with Mr. Lloyd George, who warned him several weeks ago to be prepared to return to the dominions.

Sir Robert said that he was happy to know that Canadians had borne a worthy share in the great military victory which had brought the war to such a glorious conclusion. Their achievements were never more splendid than in the closing moments of the war.

HOW CANADIANS HELD VIMY RIDGE

Toronto, Nov. 18.—"We armed every man who was capable of bearing arms, and our battalions, engineers, every man was armed—and we made up our minds what we would do. We were determined to hold that line until we died. We would have died where we stood, but in dying we should have killed so many Germans that we would have ended the war."

In these words to Hon. Dr. Cochrane, minister of education for Ontario, while on a visit to the Canadian corps, Gen. Sir Arthur Currie expressed the Canadian determination to hold on to Vimy Ridge, the great strategic center of the western front which the Canadians held in the early days of the German offensive last spring.

Dr. Cochrane told the Canadian corps at luncheon today how the German attack on the ridge had been repulsed, and how the Canadians on Vimy held firm, and the rush was stayed.

On another occasion Gen. Currie said: "I wouldn't venture to say that the Canadians had done anything else could have done, but I do venture to say that if we had not done the particular thing we did do, it would have been a disaster to the advance. The Canadian corps have been faced with some of the hardest propositions with which any body of troops has ever been faced, and they have faced them, and they have won."

THREE CENTRES FOR DISCHARGE OF ALBERTA TROOPS

EDMONTON, MEDICINE HAT AND CALGARY ARE THE CITIES SELECTED.

When the soldiers come back from overseas, the Alberta men will be discharged from three dispersal centres, Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat. Trains of 450 men for each of these points will be made up at the city of Edmonton, and brought direct west, their passengers to be distributed to final addresses in Alberta after reaching the three demobilization stations.

This plan awaits formal ratification by the war council, but according to Howard Stubbins, secretary of the Alberta Returned Soldiers' Commission, who has just returned from a trip to Ottawa, it is part of a general scheme which has been before the Canadian authorities by the department of demobilization in England, and it is likely to be adopted as the best method of dealing with the question.

It is practically certain that the men will not be brought back in battalions. The more probable plan is that they will be returned according to the trades most likely to be quickly absorbed in Canada. Farmers, for instance, will be given almost first place, so far as possible. It is thought, the preference will be given to married men who have been overseas the longest, but two schemes will be worked together.

The plan as proposed from England, and as Mr. Stubbins heard it in Ottawa, is that the men will be allowed to leave England and France to select their points of discharge in Canada, and when signing off from the clearing house, they will know exactly where they are going. On the way across the Atlantic they will be sorted into trains for their respective destinations.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAUX.
The trains that will bring the returning veterans to the west will be heavy cross-country specials, carrying from 400 to 450 men each. In the case of Alberta they will be headed for the three dispersal centres only. All men for the southern part of the province will be ticketed to Medicine Hat, those for the Calgary area to Calgary, and those for the north and north of Red Deer to Edmonton.

Mr. Stubbins conferred with the Ontario and QuebecReturned Soldiers' Commission, and with officials of the department of labor. The latter proposes to establish a system of national employment bureaux throughout the dominion, and the co-operation of the provincial governments has been asked for.

THE MOOSE CALL

By G. F. HILTZ.

Louis the guide had been left with me in charge of the base camp of the survey party, of which we were the mindless, and I had signed on as a "man," and so long as I live I shall never forget that there are eight things to me, and that a mile of Canadian bush is almost interminable.

Louis was cook. He declared that he was a good cook, and I am quite willing to believe that he may have been. Nevertheless, the most glorious meal I ever ate was a proverbially good one compounded by many cooks from several bunches of partridge, two rabbits, sundry tins of treacle and condensed milk, with a soupçon of Hudson Bay butter, commonly known as "algonquin." But we had been living for an unpeppery six weeks on flour and water, and as Louis said, with tears in his eyes, "No cook can make much out of that!" In fact, his culinary performances during that time were comparatively scanty and unwholesome.

At the time of which I speak, however, we were fairly comfortably provided for, and had little to do but eat enough wood to keep the fire going. The encampment was situated in a picturesque forest clearing on the side of a large hill, where the canopy of five or six tall, straight, among the great trees and showed up brightly against the dense bush which hemmed us in. Here and there the ground had not been trampled, black berries grew in small vermilion clusters.

The foot of the slope broke away to some rapid, and the bushes which canoes were drawn up on a little beach. Just opposite the camp a tree had been felled across the river and without any pretence of hand rail or guide, was our only bridge to the farther shore, which was clothed to the water's edge with virgin forest, where tamarack, balsam, spruce, and birch stood shoulder to shoulder in an undergrowth of blueberries, raspberries and alders, so massed and tangled together that it was impossible to penetrate far without the help of an axe.

I do not think that time hung heavily, though, as I have said, there was little to do. We had both got through a heavy spell of bush work and were glad of an "easy," quite content to idle the days away in the quiet of the mild September weather. It is true we were rather short of tobacco, but we provided ourselves with a substitute for it by scraping the stems of a certain species of bush well known to us, and drying the shavings before the fire. This is not an unpleasant alternative to MacDonald's plug.

It was fortunate that Louis and I were on excellent terms, for there was no opportunity for enjoying the peace of the bush. The nearest township, Pease, was some three hundred miles south of us; MacDonald's, one of the lonely stores which supply the Indians of the Oilfield Reservation, was fifty miles away; and the nearest Hudson Bay Company's boat was a matter of sixty miles farther north. These distances, moreover, were through country which all but the very hardiest of men would find it impossible to traverse. "Immense Forests," printed across blank spaces, which suggest very little to the casual glance of the uninitiated.

What these words really represent, only the man who has been there can fully realize—the impenetrable bush and treacherous musk; the mud and leaguers, which burn forest land smothered with stumps of fallen trees and torn up roots, where bears take their quarters; the rivers and countless feeders, which flow north and south from the height of land, with their rapids, falls and portages—and always the bewildering bush; the whistling lakes, the swamps, the mosquitoes and black flies which madden, and with it all the eight months' terrible cold or winter, which almost freezes the blood in a man. This is something of what those blank spaces represent.

We had no inducement to stay up late at night, though on a warm evening we would sit on the tent-log long after the sun had gone down below the western forest. I, for my part, never tired of those starry nights and wrought a good deal of fanciful romance into surroundings which not long ago had seen the "redskins" on the warpath of the chase. The French-Canadian Louis, backwoods born and bred, was content to ramble quietly in a scene which held nothing new to him, and when in the vein would humor my fancy with frontier tales of fifty years ago.

After all, it was good to be able to turn in without anxiety and to sleep without fear of a stealthy and merciless foe.

One day the afternoon closed in stormily. Clouds which looked as if they had been caught and rent among the tree tops, scudded across the sky at low level. The trees themselves stirred uneasily, and the gusts came and went, but until dusk we did not feel much wind on the ground.

Louis cocked a weather-wise eye at the clouds, and with a shrug proceeded to attend carefully to the gay-trimmed of the tent, whilst I built up a fire. After having made everything as snug as possible, we got under cover, glad the wind was so far behind the tent that the flaps could be left open towards the warm fire.

In a tent designed for four, two men can accommodate themselves comfortably, which certainly is not the case when only one quarter is available. So we sprawled at ease among a litter of picks, axes and guns.

The roaring of the storm steadily increased, until at last the canvas began to bulge and snap. Reckless with the wind, slashing at our thin roof as though it would pierce the cloth, it was now black night. The only thing visible at all was the glow from the fire, and its swirl of sparks. We burnt wood, not chips or "kindlin'" sticks, but logs.

It was somewhat after midnight, when a friendly ice in my ribs rendered me unconscious, and I had signed on as a "man," and so long as I live I shall never forget that there are eight things to me, and that a mile of Canadian bush is almost interminable.

Louis was cook. He declared that he was a good cook, and I am quite willing to believe that he may have been. Nevertheless, the most glorious meal I ever ate was a proverbially good one compounded by many cooks from several bunches of partridge, two rabbits, sundry tins of treacle and condensed milk, with a soupçon of Hudson Bay butter, commonly known as "algonquin." But we had been living for an unpeppery six weeks on flour and water, and as Louis said, with tears in his eyes, "No cook can make much out of that!" In fact, his culinary performances during that time were comparatively scanty and unwholesome.

At the time of which I speak, however, we were fairly comfortably provided for, and had little to do but eat enough wood to keep the fire going. The encampment was situated in a picturesque forest clearing on the side of a large hill, where the canopy of five or six tall, straight, among the great trees and showed up brightly against the dense bush which hemmed us in. Here and there the ground had not been trampled, black berries grew in small vermilion clusters.

SPECIALIST SAID HE MUST OPERATE

She Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Instead. And Is Now in Perfect Health.

MME. F. GAREAU

123 Papineau Ave., Montreal.

"For three years, I suffered great pain in the lower part of my body, with swelling or bloating. I saw a specialist, who carefully examined me and gave me several bottles to take, which did not help me. Then he told me I must undergo an operation. This, I refused to permit.

I heard about 'Fruit-a-tives' and the wonderful results it was giving because this medicine is made from fruit juices, so decided to try it.

The first box gave great relief; and I continued the treatment, taking six boxes more. Now, my health is excellent—I am free of pain and swelling—and I give 'Fruit-a-tives' my warmest thanks."

try was already fairly densely covered with patches of young grass, growing vigorously from soil fertilized with wood ash.

I had pushed my way through some ferns hoping to put a very big partridge, when I became aware of a heavy body propelling itself in my direction. A nasty game discovered an angry goose sweeping down like a huge war horse.

A goose ordinarily avoids man when possible, but in the fall of the year, his temper becomes erratic, when the size, speed and strength of the animal make him a formidable antagonist. This may serve to explain the somewhat gratuitous attack of which I was the object.

At the moment I stood in an open space, with the moose about thirty yards away. My only weapon was a shotgun, which I first pointed at the animal, making him a formidable antagonist. This may serve to explain the somewhat gratuitous attack of which I was the object.

In the meantime, however, I could not spare a moment to think of the fact that I could once again I should be able to stand a siege.

At the moment I stood in an open space, with the moose about thirty yards away. My only weapon was a shotgun, which I first pointed at the animal, making him a formidable antagonist. This may serve to explain the somewhat gratuitous attack of which I was the object.

I made for a large upturned root which had carried a mound of earth with it. The trunk itself was hidden until I turned the mound, but I espied a passage under the tree just in time to crawl through it. I was out quicker than I could have slipped a cartridge into a rifle—how I longed for one—and the moose was puzzled at my sudden disappearance.

In the short respite I scanned the country anxiously, and was pleased to spot the crane, though fully aware that the only hope of my escape lay in the making of a hole in the ground. I used my bolt hole again, like a rat, and the cunning old moose had found me out. The place had distinct structural advantages, and the same for by crawling under the trunk, I could see the baffled moose plunging around on one side or the other, but in time he got out of reach on the other side.

That sort of peek-a-bo game could not be kept up indefinitely, of course, and I was bound to make my own move. I had a rifle, but I was not a marksman, and I sprang for it. I was not a marksman, and I sprang for it. I was not a marksman, and I sprang for it.

I lifted my feet and ran. It was the only thing to do; neck or nothing. I was wearing shoe packs, and I was not a marksman, and I sprang for it. I was not a marksman, and I sprang for it.

The tremendous strides of the moose brought him along at a great rate, and I could not but be gratified at my very luck. Only a few yards separated us when I flung off my fur cap. The moose stopped to stare at it with his forefoot. Blam! stamp—the poor old moosehead gear had served its last purpose. I was not track running, but it remembered, but in three seconds I made a good twenty yards over stony ground. When the beast closed up again, I tore a scarf from my neck. It met the same fate as the cap, and I gained ground until the moose gathered speed once more. Gasping I tore off my hunting jacket. Hatless, scarfless and coatless, I reached the rocks in safety, and with my last ounce of strength scrambled to the top, where I flung myself down and lay panting, for I was nearly spent with the prolonged strain of the chase. After a while I sat up and watched the old moose raging round and round. He was fresh as paint.

What would I not have given for a cup of cold water from the stream yonder! All the wages that I was owed to date.

Well there I was; there also was the moose. An hour later the moose was still there, and so was I. And by that time I was hungry as well as thirsty.

I had ample leisure to study the creature which had hunted me to an ignominious position from which I dared not venture. From shoulder to ground it stood a good eight feet, and at that season of the year was in its glossy prime and "cond fat." Judging from the huge palmed antlers, he was a full grown adult.

In sheer rage he ripped the bark from the trunk until he stood around the rocks, and the earth was cut up like a cattle run in his savage circuit of the creek.

When I had quite recovered my wind, I yelled in hope of attracting Louis' attention.

I yelled the Canadian bush-cry until my throat cracked. The moose, accepting my cries as a challenge, dug his fore-feet at the rocks below me, I felt very much like a treed possum, and exasperated. (Thank you, I could not help seeing the humor of the situation.)

At intervals I yelled from desperation rather than from expectation of being heard.

"Ki-yi! Ki-yi!—Ki!"

I stopped suddenly, for a canoe was dropping down stream. It was Louis of course—Louis, with a rifle.

I scrambled round the summit of the rocks, and the moose shambled round with me until he stood around a Winchester. Then the great beast fell to a clean shot at easy range, and the legs were raised.

We padded up stream in the dusk laden with excellent meat, and were soon squatted before the fire, where Louis and I were spitting our meat appetizingly.

I presently observed Louis chuckling silently to himself as he leaned back. The moose, I asked him, was the joke, and he replied: "Zis is vat you call ze luck, zat you go out for partridge and get round with me until he stood around a Winchester. Then the great beast fell to a clean shot at easy range, and the legs were raised."

My mind being filled to bursting with the problem of where to jump next, it was impossible to evolve any sensible plan of action. The only course was to dodge carefully, and keep on dodging. I knew that somewhere not far away there was a rocky crag, and I decided that if I could once gain it I should be able to stand a siege.

In the meantime, however, I could not spare a moment to think of the fact that I could once again I should be able to stand a siege.

This is Indeed a Quality Store

IN making purchases for any department we believe there is never a variation from the general policy of "never sacrificing quality to get a lower price." But on the other hand CASH IS MADE TO COUNT and we may say frankly that our net profits are derived entirely from the purchasing end of our business, and furthermore we are quite satisfied with this saving advantage, and the merchandise is passed on to our customers at lower prices and consequently better values than is otherwise possible.

We believe a general bill of domestic supplies can be purchased here with greater satisfaction and with greater economy; and we are anxious to serve you.

SOME KAISERISMS RECALLED

London, Nov. 12.—Prominence is given by the British newspapers to some of the utterances made by former Emperor William, while the war was in progress. In the year 1914, he said:

"Before the leaves fall from the trees we shall be back again in the dear fatherland. Exterminate first the treacherous French and wall over Gen. Foch's contemptible little army. The warlike spirit still lives in the German people—that powerful spirit which attacks the enemy wherever it finds him, regardless of the cost."

"You, my troops, are my guarantee that I can dictate peace to my enemies. Up and at the foe; God's goodness will guide the German people through battle to victory—to the goal appointed for the German people by providence. I have drawn the sword which, without victory, and without honor, I cannot sheath again. We stand with our hearts toward God to the death with the enemies of Germany. Amen."

COMING TO HIS CLOSE

In 1915 the German ruler said: "Our brave soldiers have shown themselves to be invincible in battle against nearly the whole world. The war drama is now coming to its close."

To the king of the Sennel, he said: "Our common enemies, whom Allah will annihilate to the last man, I shall not spare. So be it. Regarding the United States, the emperor declared: "America had better look out after the war, I shall not spare to menaces from the Americans. My destructive sword has crushed the Russians. In a short while I will announce my victory. The war drama is now coming to its close. In a just cause I am ready to force myself to be cruel."

FEAR WILL CREEP IN

In 1916 the emperor said: "The world was prepared for any thing but a victory by the German people over the British fleet. Fear will creep into the bones of the enemy. "Bucharest has been taken. What a magnificent success on the road to complete victory has been gained with God's help!"

"Germany is invincible in spite of the superior numbers of our enemies and every day confirms this new. Germany knows her strength and she relies on God's help. The foe is defending his soil foot by foot. This is the resistance of despair, but it must be broken. He has prepared his soup and now he must sup it. I look to you to see to it."

"All Germany contemplates with pride her brave sons, whose deeds with God's help, will be a landmark on the road to final victory."

CARE BURDEN ON THE LORD

In 1917 the head of the German nation said: "If the enemy does not want peace then we must bring peace by battering in with iron fist and shining sword the doors of those who will not have peace. "Victory in the coming year will again be on our side and on that of our allies. If only we cast the burden on the Lord he will smile the help and thigh as he did Amalek, the prototype of perfidious England. "Our U-boats are not going to rest until, with God's help, but I can be beaten. With the help of God, who has hitherto graciously protected us, the enemy shall have a decision. England in particular the enemy he struck down, however difficult it may be."

DESPONDENCY GREW

"The year 1917, with its great battles, has proved that the German people has in the Lord of Creation above an unshakable and absolutely reliable ally on whom it can absolutely rely."

In June 1918, the emperor said: "God, the Lord, has laid a heavy burden on my shoulders, but I can carry it in the consciousness of our good right, with confidence in our sharp sword and our strength."

THE NEWS' WEEKLY SERMON

By the REV. G. D. ARMSTRONG.

When the Lord turned again the attention of Zion, We were like them that dream. Then was our mouth filled with laughter and our tongues with singing: the Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad. Psa. 126:1-3.

Great events of history stir the human soul to its depths and quicken the feelings of disappointment and sorrow, or of joy and gladness. The words of our text describe the mingled feelings of the captive people of Zion when after years of national exile they were permitted to return to their native land.

To those who had earnestly longed for deliverance, feeling keenly "the pain of exile hearts that yearn," the news seemed too good to be true. In the exuberant joy of deliverance, they felt at first they were living in a world of dreams instead of in the midst of real things. With the realization of the good news, their pent-up feelings found expression in such songs of gladness that those who could not share their hopes or enter into the gladness of the hour, did not help but recognize that their songs of salvation were indeed inspired by religious feelings of gratitude and adoration.

We, who have felt that the events of the past four years have been a hideous nightmare, who have had with us in every moment of consciousness a sense of the world-pain through which the nations have been passing, find in this ancient psalm fitting expression to the feelings which surged through our souls when at last we had reached the plains of peace.

Like those of old we realize "that those who now in tears, reap in joy," that the way of struggle and sacrifice leads at last to life and fullness of joy. One could not fail to be impressed with the sincerity and intensity of the religious feeling which characterized the peace celebration last week, and it is exceedingly gratifying to note that the leaders in the same sublime spirit of self-control in the hour of victory which has been manifested so clearly in the disciplinary experience which has marked the world's great conflict, "the Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad."

How can this gratitude be expressed most fittingly? Glad songs may be sung and when the opportunity comes, surely the people will join with renewed interest in the services of worship and of praise. But there remain still greater victories to be won, and as ever there will be "new occasions to teach new duties." Our first task will be to honor as a grateful nation should, the men

LOYD GEORGE IS FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

TELLS SUPPORTERS SUCH A WORLD ORGANIZATION MORE NECESSARY THAN EVER

London, Nov. 13.—Premier Lloyd George in discussing the question of the organization of nations, yesterday, said that such a league was more necessary now than ever before. He pointed out that the conditions which prevailed in the Balkans before the war were now affecting practically two-thirds of Europe. "A large number of small nations have been born in Europe," he said, "and these will require a league of nations to protect them against the covetousness of ambitious and grasping neighbors. My judgment is a league of nations is absolutely essential to permanent peace."

GUARANTEE ITS REALITY.

"We shall go to the peace conference to guarantee that a league of nations is a reality. I am one of those who believe that without peace we cannot have progress. A league of nations guarantees peace and guarantees also an all-round reduction of armaments, and that reduction of armaments is a guarantee that you can get rid of conscription here."

"Of course we must have in this country a sufficient army to police the empire, but I am looking forward to a condition of things with the existence of a league of nations, under which conscription will not be necessary in any country."

WHAT ARE PRINCIPLES?

"What are the principles on which that settlement is to be effected? he asked. "Are we to lapse back into the old national rivalries, or are we to adopt the principle of peace? It is the duty of Liberalism to use its influence to ensure that it shall be a reign of peace? "What are the conditions of peace? They must lead to a settlement which will be fundamentally just. No settlement that contravenes the principles of international justice will be a permanent one. The peace of 1871 imposed by Germany on France outraged all the principles of justice and fair play. Let us be warned by that example."

AGAINST REVENGE "We must not allow any sense of revenge to lead to a greed, any grasping desire to override the fundamental principles of righteousness. Vigorous attempts will be made to hock and bully the governments in an endeavour to make them depart from the strict principles of right and to satisfy some base, sordid, squalid vengeance and avarice. We must relentlessly set our faces against that."

"The mandate of this government at the forthcoming election will insist that the British delegation to the peace congress will be in favor of a just peace."

The High School Student's reunion will be held on Friday evening, December 27th this year. Miss Geraldine Parke is secretary and Roland Michener president of the Association.

F. A. Billingshurst was in the city over the week end looking up old friends. He has been promoted to a position in the Great West Sundry Company's office at Regina, and left for that city on Monday.

Mrs. Charles Bremner, who has been visiting in Red Deer some weeks was unable to return home owing to the towns west of Edmonton being quarantined. She is glad the quarantines are being lifted at last.

E. Matchett, of Eokville, and family, passed through the city a few days ago on their way to their new home at Port Haney, B.C. Mr. Matchett was one of the most respected citizens of the west country, and was the oldest settler west of the Medicine. The many friends of the family will regret to hear of their departure, but will wish them all sorts of good luck in their new home.

Monday night last week the settlers around Horn Hill had a great celebration in honor of the close of the war. One of them had just returned with a moose, head and skin, and the boys built a big fire on Horn Hill and cooked the moose in royal fashion. They also took up a number of chickens and roasted them, and one of the greatest feasts ever enjoyed in Alberta was the result. "Oh, boy, but I ate moose until I couldn't eat another bite. I never ate so much in my life," said one of them. They kept up the barbecue until two or three in the morning, and the big fire was seen for many miles around.

Melville Wilson, son of E. M. Wilson, met with a nasty accident on Monday evening about five o'clock, when out on the East Hill with another boy and a twenty-two. Melville told his companion to lower the rifle, and in doing so he accidentally fired it off, the bullet entering Melville's left leg behind the knee, and passing through both legs. Mrs. Parkinson dressed the wounds and carried the lad all the way home to Victoria Avenue where it was found that no bones were broken and no particular damage is expected unless a nerve is cut.
